Congratulations to Dartmouth college's new head!

We have just seen the usually unsuccess-ful spectacle of a crane trying to lift itself by its own bootstraps, so to speak.

A proposed "hotel for gentlemen." Alas! New York is lapsing into the mollycoddle state because of Teddy's absence in the jungle.

Windsor, Vt. gets a mammoth machine shop and Marie Dressler, the actress, at one fell swoop. Windsor people smile at the first and laugh at the second, and everybody is pleased.

It seems that the north-pole controversy is being made to hinge on the reliability of some Eskimos who have about as much interest in the discovery of the pole as Hetty Green has in the game of golf.

With an entering class of ninety-eight men and women, Middlebury college shows the results of a publicity-campaign inaugurated by President Thomas since he became the head of the institution a year ago.

The usual pile-up of annual meetings, banquets, conventions, and just plain talk-fests during the Vermont legislative session of 1910 has been started by the Vermont Colonial Dames. Too bad! They hamper the work of the legislature, although it may be said to the advantage of the Colonial Dames that their influence on the assembly is merely coldly distant, like an iceberg passing several miles off the coast.

The Rutland News has made the discovery that the two physicians from the state laboratory who conducted the autopsy on the murdered Wallingford woman have only wooden heads—"bass wood"—if you please. This burst of disgust is called forth by the refusal of the two physicians to divulge their findings to the newspapers, and is hardly justified. The News has lost its temper—aggravating as the situation may have been to an ambitious newspaper reporter.

Imagine the wrath of Theodore N. Vail when he read in some of the press dispatches that "T. N. Vail of Boston" was elected to the Boston & Maine directorate. It was Theodore N. Vail of Lyndon Center, Vt., if you please. During Mr. Vail's wanderings over the globe he always gives his residence as Lyndon Center, Vt., thus spreading the fame of the little Vermont village on a par with Boston itself. He also poses sometimes as a farmer, although he is president of a powerful telephone company as well as being one of the leading financiers of the East.

A mild sarcasm for the St. Albans Messenger to deal out is furnished in the following:

"The distinguished visitors in this city yesterday were heavily in their admiration of the picturesque vacant lot on Kingman street and its attractive crop of burdock, waste paper, and tin cans. One spring we had a hysterical spasm of cleaning up, we business men, and we started to make a park of that vacant lot so that it would not be an eye sore until somebody built on it. (Read that again.) But we didn't hold out. We quit. Just like any other plain, ordinary quitters."

MINISTER CRANE'S INDISCRETION.

The summary request for dismissal of Charles H. Crane of Chicago from his new post as minister to China, coming so soon after his appointment and attended by such remarkable features, is said to be without exact parallel in the history of the United States, although other ministers, notably Herbert W. Posen as minister to Venezuela, have been dismissed through other causes than that ascribed as the reason for Mr. Crane's forced resignation. The steps leading up to the dismissal of Minister Crane are perhaps not all open to the public as yet; but judging from what has been published of the correspondence between Secretary of State Knox and Mr. Crane and from knowledge of the latter's attitude on previous occasions, the prompt action of Secretary Knox in requesting his resignation is justified. The chief apparent reason for the secretary's request was the extreme loquacity of Mr. Crane on public occasions regarding the attitude of the United States government in the Orient. For instance, after receiving his commission as minister to China and being made acquainted somewhat with the proposed policies of his government, he made a statement which was construed to mean that the United States government is planning no protest against the new agreement between China and Japan in connection with their relations in Manchuria. He was quoted as giving foundation to a rather startling newspaper story which found its way into the Orient, where doubtless it caused considerable excitement; and so far as published Mr. Crane does not deny that he gave the reporter foundation for the story, or "canard," as Secretary Knox calls it. Moreover, Mr. Crane tries to justify his extreme garrulousness by quoting President Taft's advice, "Do not miss any of them (banquets), and when you go to one insist on speaking and let them have it red hot." President Taft may have given that advice, but he certainly did not intend that Mr. Crane should divulge state secrets or lay the foundation for stories which are not based on the actual intentions of the government. He intended his minister to China to use a due measure of discretion and not to embarrass his government or lay it liable to entanglements with other powers. Secretiveness is a better quality in a foreign minister rather than loquacity, and Mr. Crane is better left at home rather than sent as minister to China, there to certainly embarrass us through unwise revelations or unjustified guesses.

CURRENT COMMENT

One Kind of a Candidate.

More and more of the state papers are coming to realize and admit the crying need of a reorganization of Vermont's judiciary system. The Burlington Free Press is one of the latest converts, and in welcoming that paper to the fold the Rutland Herald recalls some of the things in greatest need of correction. It believes that the salaries of state's attorneys, sheriffs and county clerks are needlessly high, while the situation in regard to municipal courts is little short of scandalous. Probate court business, the Herald thinks, costs too much, and it favors the reduction of probate court judges' salaries. It would also do away with side judges and grand jurors. Here is the great opportunity of the coming campaign. If some candidate will come out sincerely in favor of a complete and effectual reorganization of the judiciary from top to bottom and make a thorough campaign on that issue alone with which his candidacy will accumulate popular support. Such a candidate, to be sure, cannot count on the support or even the goodwill of those who heretofore have been looked upon as petty political leaders for as a rule they are the ones who benefit from an extravagant judiciary system, but he can collect with hardly any effort an array of facts that will put all of these hangers-on to utter rout. An analysis of the dockets of a few of the municipal courts in the state and a comparison of their cost with the cost of the old way will furnish any intelligent candidate with sufficient thunder to make a boundary-wide reverberation.—Burlington Reformer.

Applause and Other Things.

A correspondent of the Monitor on Monday referred to the coldness of theatrical audiences in Concord, as evidenced by their niggardly applause in the case of really meritorious dramatic productions. If our correspondent's criticism is well founded, the fact is to be regretted; for failure to applaud not infrequently robs playgoers of much of the entertainment to which they are entitled and which the play managers are anxious to give them. Many of the most pleasing features of spectacular productions are arranged as encore numbers and unless the applause is given, the encore numbers do not materialize. Then again, the stars of the musical shows are always prepared to respond to repeated encores and it is always arranged to give them opportunities to do so. If the encores do not come, the enthusiastic playgoers lost a great portion of the entertainment prepared for them.

Of course, these observations do not apply to purely dramatic performances, and it is true that the actor, like other men, works best when he feels that his work is appreciated and he would simply be human if he should regard it as useless to exert himself for an audience which in no way shows that it enjoys his work.

While on this subject, it seems proper to remark, also, that unless the people of a city show that they want the good things of the stage they are likely to be forgotten when those good things are being distributed. When a town has once been given a place upon any theatrical circuit it may retain that place for a time even after it has been demonstrated that its people are not disposed to support the theatre, but this will not be for long. In a little time, such a town as we have described is wiped off the theatrical map and it is sometimes kept off for long and weary years.

All this may or may not be timely, but we do not think that the things we have said are entirely lacking in local application.—Concord Monitor.

WHY SALVES FAIL

TO CURE ECZEMA

They Clog the Pores—Only a Liquid Can Reach the Inner Skin.

Since the old-fashioned theory of curing eczema through the blood has been given up by scientists, many different salves have been tried for skin diseases. But it has been found that these salves only clog the pores and cannot penetrate to the inner skin below the epidermis, where the eczema germs are lodged.

This quality of penetrating—probably explains the tremendous success of the only standard liquid eczema cure, oil of wintergreen as compounded in D. D. Prescription. After ten years of cure after cure, the world's leading skin specialists have accepted this as the true eczema cure. We ourselves do not hesitate to recommend D. D. Prescription at $1.00 a bottle but for the benefit of those who have never tried the prescription, we arranged with the D. D. Laboratories of Chicago for a special large bottle at 25 cents on a special offer now. This first bottle ought to convince every sufferer, and at any rate, it will surely take away the itch at once. Here are two special overcoats. Cloth, cut, pattern and style were all studied out particularly for young men who, in tailoring work, are now counted as a special class.

While these coats are not exaggerated in make-up, still there is a pronounced dash and freshness about them that is different from the clothing made for middle-aged men or for a youth.

JINGLES AND JESTS

A Woman's Reason.

"Oh, how could you be false to me?" The youth implored of her. She turned away and hid her face. Her eyes began to blur. "I didn't mean to," she exclaimed, "I really loved you better. But, oh, the man I've taken now writes such a lovely letter."

"Tush, tush," the youth then made reply. "The foolish, such a reason; your words to me in days ago were but the merest treason." "I really couldn't help it, dear," the maiden said for answer. "My new love was so nicely dressed, and such a lovely dancer."

"You mean," the youth then blurted out, "That love is just a matter of how the little things you see may cause your heart to patter?" "I mean," she slowly answered him, "And then there came a pause—'I mean—oh, well, just never mind—I threw you down because.'"

ASSAULTED SCHOOL TEACHER.

Fletcher Woman Sentenced to Three Months and Sentence Stayed. St. Albans, Oct. 14.—Several civil cases were disposed of yesterday in Franklin county court, the entry of which was discontinued being made. In the case of State vs. Helen Kelley of Fletcher, charged with assaulting a school teacher, Mrs. Kelley pleaded guilty and was sentenced to three months in jail. This sentence was stayed and the woman was placed in the hands of the probation officer for six months. In the case of State vs. Joseph Raymond of Sheldon, charged with an assault and breach of the peace on the late Chester James, Raymond pleaded guilty and sentence will be pronounced later. A jury was empaneled yesterday afternoon in the case of State vs. Frank Peters of this city, charged with selling intoxicating liquor illegally.

WAS NO CONTEST.

Mrs. Ida H. Reed Was Not Candidate For W. C. T. U.

To The Barre Times.—In the recent account of the election of W. C. T. U. president of Vermont, given in the Barre Times, a wrong impression was conveyed which all concerned most earnestly desire to have corrected. Mrs. Ida H. Reed was not a candidate for reelection, her own business affairs preventing her from assuming the duties of president and there was no contest for the office. The esteem in which Mrs. Reed is held here is due to her, notwithstanding her earnest protest when she learned that an effort was made to have her resume her old place. Mrs. Reed will continue as superintendent of legislative work and can assume no other duties this year outside of home affairs. Gratia E. Davidson.

SOUTH BARRE.

There will be a social in the school house chapel Friday evening. Good entertainment and music will be furnished by the Baptist society of the city, after which cake and ice cream will be served. FEW DOSES PUT BAD

KIDNEYS IN ORDER

Lame Back, Bladder Misery and Other Distress Caused by Out-of-order Kidneys Vanish.

Usually suffers from backache, bladder trouble or out-of-order kidneys feel relieved after several doses of Pape's Diuretic.

Misery in the back, sides, or loins, sick headache, inflamed or swollen eye-lids, nervousness, rheumatism and darting pains, heart palpitations, dizziness, sleeplessness, listless, worn-out feeling, and other symptom of inactive, sluggish kidneys simply vanish.

Uncontrollable urination (especially at night), smarting, discolored water and all bladder misery ends.

Feeling miserable and worried is needless because this unusual preparation goes at once to the out-of-order kidneys and bladder, dissolving its cleansing, healing and vitalizing influence directly upon the organs and glands affected, and completes the cure before you realize it. The moment you suspect any kidney or urinary derangement, or feel rheumatic pains, begin taking this harmless medicine, with the knowledge that there is no other remedy, at any price, made anywhere else in the world, which will effect so thorough and prompt a cure as a fifty-cent treatment of Pape's Diuretic, which any druggist can supply.

Your physician, pharmacist, banker or any mercantile agency will tell you that Pape, Thompson & Pape of Cincinnati is a large and responsible medicine concern, thoroughly worthy of your confidence.

Only curative results can come from taking Pape's Diuretic, and a few days' treatment will make anyone feel fine. Accept only Pape's Diuretic—fifty-cent treatment—from any drug store—anywhere in the world.

Free If It Fails

Your Money Back if You are Not Satisfied with the Medicine We Recommend.

We are so positive that our remedy will permanently relieve constipation, no matter how chronic it may be, that we offer to furnish the medicine at our expense should it fail to produce satisfactory results. It is worse than useless to attempt to cure constipation with cathartic drugs. Laxatives or cathartics do much harm. They cause a reaction, irritate and weaken the bowels and tend to make constipation more chronic. Besides, their use becomes a habit that is dangerous.

Constipation is caused by a weakness of the nerves and muscles of the large intestine or descending colon. To expect permanent relief you must therefore tone up and strengthen these organs and restore them to healthier activity.

The discovery of the active principle of our remedy involved the labor of the world's greatest research chemists. As an active agent it possesses the valuable qualities of the best known intestinal tonics as well as being particularly pleasant and prompt in its results.

We want you to try Rexall Ointment on your recommendation. They are exceedingly pleasant to take, being eaten like candy, and are ideal for children, delicate persons and old folks, as well as for the robust. They act directly on the nerves and muscles of the bowels. They apparently have a neutral action on other associate organs or glands. They do not purge, cause excessive looseness nor create any inconvenience whatever. They may be taken at any time, day or night. They will positively relieve chronic or habitual constipation, if not of surgical variety, and the myriads of associate or dependent chronic ailments, if taken with regularity for a reasonable length of time. They come in two sizes of packages, 12 tablets, 10 cents; 25 tablets 25 cents. Sold in Barre only at our store, The Rexall Store. Red Cross Pharmacy, Burt H. Wells, Proprietor.
